

MEG FLEMING

School Visit Information

Meg loves visiting schools to talk about writing, reading and the magic of the creative process. She is happy to speak to large assemblies as well as small groups in workshop settings.

As an Ambassador of Literary Arts and former K-12 music teacher, Meg is comfortable presenting to all ages. She has discussed novels with first graders and picture books with seniors in high school. There are no limitations on what can be learned through children's literature.

Presentations are designed around specific age groups.
